TLD Registry Ltd, the registry of Dot Chinese Online (在线) and Dot Chinese Website (中文网) top level domains, will be running a course called "The Top 10 FAQ's for Chinese IDN Domaining" during the NamesCon 2015 conference in Las Vegas next week.

As the title suggests, this session will cover the top 10 most frequently asked questions about Chinese IDN domaining that domainers have consistently asked the TLD Registry team over the past year. If you're a beginning domainer, or a veteran domainer and have questions about Chinese IDN domaining, this 60-minute session will be very valuable to you as you prepare to begin your journey to invest in Chinese IDNs.

The top 10 most frequently asked questions that will be covered in this session are:

- How does Chinese text input work?
- What is pinyin?
- Why are numeric domains so popular?
- How good is the IDN aftermarket?
- How do I develop and park my IDNs?
- I have valuable inventory. How do I find Chinese buyers?
- Do trademarks work in China?
- What's best: ASCII or IDNs?
- How do I get paid?
- How do I know which Chinese domain name is best?

If you are looking to get concrete answers to these questions from TLD Registry's own China professional team, look no further. The Top 10 FAQ's for Chinese IDN Domaining session is for you.

Each Top 10 FAQ's for Chinese IDN Domaining session will be held in TLD Registry's own Chinese Domaining Masterclass classroom, which is Ashton room #2 on the second floor of the Tropicana Hotel. On Day One of NamesCon, which is Monday, January 12, The Top 10 FAQ's session will be held in the Vertigo hall from 12:55 - 13:55 as a conjunctive session with TLD Registry's sponsored box lunch. Come enjoy a delicious lunch and get your questions answered about Chinese IDN domaining at the same time!

Remember that you can secure your seat to this session by stopping by the TLD Registry booth to pick up a "fast pass" ticket, which ensures your spot in the classroom upon presentation of the ticket to either Simon Cousins or Jin Wang (TLD Registry's presenter's of the masterclass). Again, if any three out of the four sessions are attended, you'll get your own 100-page binder curriculum, which covers everything in the presentation sessions, and more.
