by MORGAN on DECEMBER 9, 2014

When it comes to the domain industry there are industry players, and there are legends. In my mind Right Of The Dot gets legendary status given that it's run by two of the biggest names in the domain industry, Monte Cahn and Michael Berkens. If you've been following the news lately you also know that another domain industry legend, Pinky Alan Brand is doing big things at TLD Registry.

TLD Registry has just announced that they are partnering with Right Of The Dot which really is, like the title says, a match made in heaven.

"TLD Registry operates with a solid business model that western markets need to be taking advantage of," Cahn said. "The Asian domain market is one of the fastest growing markets for the domain industry, and we feel there is great opportunity for all investors for these two Chinese IDN extensions."

Huge congrats to both companies as I see this as a clear win for both and honestly an even bigger win for the Chinese domain market. You can learn more about all the awesome things that TLD Registry is up to here.
